7 Reasons Adventist Schools Work:

Spiritual Focus

Seventh-day Adventist schools focus on preparing students not just for success in this life, but for eternity. The ultimate goal of each teacher is to see each student in a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Student-Teacher Ratio

Most Seventh-day Adventist schools have a low student-teacher ratio. This allows for more individualized attention and instruction. "The benefits of smaller classes extend beyond test scores and student engagement. In addition to the longer-term positive attributes of small class sizes in the early grades, benefits include continued academic and life success."

Academic Achievement

CognitiveGenesis, a four year study of 30,000 students enrolled in Seventh-day Adventist schools across North America found that students in Seventh-day Adventist schools achieve an average of half a grade above predicted ability in all subjects.

Tailored Curriculum

Seventh-day Adventist schools benefit from a curriculum especially designed for single and multi-grade classrooms. The North American Division Office of Education has developed excellent, high-quality standards-based materials for all classrooms. The curriculum is designed so that students are constantly connected with Christ and the possibilities He has for each.

Family Atmosphere

Seventh-day Adventist schools have a family atmosphere that is similar to what students encounter in the real world outside the classroom. "The range of social relationships students build in a multilevel, classroom more closely reflects the social situations individuals encounter in workplaces, communities, and families." (edu.gov.mb.ca)

Involved Parents

Parents appreciate the stable learning community of Adventist schools and the stronger relationships they are able to develop with their child's teacher. There are more opportunities for parents to be involved whether it is volunteering in the classroom, assisting with a field trip, or serving on the local school board.

Peer Tutoring

"The benefits of having older students offer assistance to younger students are supported by research. Studies show that both the student being tutored and the student doing the tutoring improve academically."
